With Hurricane Helene hitting the Southeast last month, western North Carolina was decimated by the storm. Our thoughts and prayers go out to all the families impacted by this tragedy as many lives and homes were lost. To help out our fellow Carolinians, we partnered with the NC emergency management division to become a designated regional hurricane relief distribution center to provide basic necessities for all of those affected. We want to thank our community, vendors, and various sponsors that have contributed to this project. We were blessed to be able to send 5 53-foot trailers over the past month.

Super Flame Gas Company

Jessie Brantley, Hugh Brinn, Angie Ayscue, Chris Thomas, Debbie Hardy, Jeff Wade, Ray Brinn, Josh Phillips

"Your Hometown Propane Company For 72 Years"

Looking to diversify Stalling Oil Company's thriving business, Hugh Shearin and his wife, June Stallings Shearin, bought 19 100 lb. propane cylinders for cooking gas in 1952. With the support of Mr. A.R. Stallings, June's father and company founder, the new propane operation, Super Flame (named by A.R.'s wife, Mabel) was born. June handled the books. Hugh served as Vice President, delivery man and service technician. Dedicated employees met the demands of a growing community of loyal customers. Sons-in-law Ray Brinn (President) and Brad Bobbitt (Vice President) now lead the company which prospers as a provider of propane gas for a variety of residential customers. Ray's son, Hugh, also helps lead Super Flame as Manager.

As Superflame begins its 72nd year, Ray is thankful. "We've been blessed with an opportunity to serve and the potential to do even more.

We thank our customers and look forward to developing even more relationships in the future."
